Prayer Before Mass

Father in heaven, we wish to prepare well for participation in this Mass, in which we enter the Last Supper, Passion, Death and Resurrection of your Son, Jesus Christ. He is as present to us today in his Word and in the Eucharist, as he was with his apostles.

Holy Spirit, please quiet our minds from the busyness and distractions of our day, so that we will have hearts and minds attentive to the words of Jesus and ready to receive his Body and Blood in Holy Communion.

Blessed Mother, take our hearts and give us yours, that like you, we may ponder Jesus' words and do whatever he tells us to do. We make this prayer through Christ our Lord, Amen.

The Catholic University of America Collection

This weekend, 9/6/2026, the diocese will be taking up the National Collection for The Catholic University of America. Catholic University is a national research university with over 5,700 undergraduate and graduate students in more than 250 academic programs in the heart of Washington, D.C. By giving to the collection, you are supporting both future Catholic leaders, religious and lay, who are being formed by an exceptional, Faith-inspired education and the University's various research and training initiatives that support dioceses and parishes in responding to the most pressing needs of their faithful. The Catholic Project - an initiative that brings together clergy and laity to address the challenges that the Catholic Church faces in the U.S. contributing education, formation, research, events, and media, a master's program in Ecclesial Administration and Management, and a credentialing program that prepares recent graduates to serve as campus ministers are a few examples how the University is serving the Church and nation. Please give generously.

The Nativity of the Blessed Virgin Mary

The birth of Mary was miraculous. She was conceived without sin as a special grace because God had selected her to become the mother of His Son (the feast of her Immaculate Conception is celebrated on December 8). The dogma of the Immaculate Conception of the Virgin Mary, though generally believed throughout the Church for many centuries, was formally declared by Pope Pius IX in 1854.

There is nothing contained in Scripture about the birth of Mary or her parentage, though Joseph's lineage is given in the first chapter of the Gospel of Matthew. The names of Mary's parents, Joachim and Anna, appear in the apocryphal "Gospel of James", a book dating from the 2nd Century AD, not part of the authentic canon of Scripture. According to this account, Joachim and Anna were also beyond the years of child-bearing, but prayed and fasted that God would grant their desire for a child.

According to one tradition, the house in which Mary was born in Nazareth is the same one in which the Annunciation took place. By another tradition, the Annunciation site is beneath the Crusader church of Saint Anna in Jerusalem, under a 3rd Century oratory known as the "Gate of Mary".

In celebrating the nativity of Mary, Christians anticipate the Incarnation and birth of her Divine Son, and give honor to the mother of Our Lord and Savior. (Feast Day: September 8th)

"Always stay close to this Heavenly Mother, because she is the sea to be crossed to reach the shores of Eternal Splendor."

A Beacon Of Light…
The Little King Who Still Reigns: Divine Providence At The Shrine Of The Infant Of Prague

In certain places in the world, heaven seems just a little closer to earth. Every pilgrimage leaves its mark upon the soul, but every so often a sacred place speaks to the heart in a way that cannot be explained easily.

Such was my experience this past July while traveling through Central Europe. One of the greatest blessings of my journey was visiting the Church of Our Lady Victorious in Prague, home of the world-famous Infant Jesus of Prague. What began as a simple visit to attend Sunday Mass with my 90-year-old Aunt Rose became an unforgettable lesson in God's Providence – one that I shall treasure for the rest of my priesthood.

For generations, Catholics throughout the world have cherished devotion to the Infant of Prague. His image occupies places of honor in homes, convents, schools, hospitals, and churches on every continent. Yet standing before the original statue, praying where countless pilgrims have knelt for centuries, is an experience that words struggle to capture. One immediately realizes that this is far more than a beloved religious image. It is a place where countless souls have encountered the living Christ.

The devotion itself has a remarkable history. The small wax-covered wooden statue, standing less than 19 inches high, is believed to have originated in 16th-Century Spain. According to a cherished tradition, it once belonged to the great Carmelite reformer, St. Teresa of Avila, although historians cannot verify this with certainty. What is known is that the statue eventually came into the possession of the Spanish noblewoman Maria Manrique de Lara.

When Maria married the Czech nobleman Vratislav of Pernstein in 1556, she brought the treasured image with her to Prague. Years later, her daughter, Princess Polyxena of Lobkowicz, donated the statue to the Carmelite friars at the Church of Our Lady Victorious. As she presented the image, she offered words that history has never forgotten: "Honor this image faithfully, and you shall never know want." Those words proved prophetic.

During the Thirty Years' War, the Carmelite monastery was invaded, plundered and abandoned. The little statue was discarded behind rubble, forgotten for years, its delicate hands broken. It remained hidden until Fr. Cyrillus of the Mother of God rediscovered it in 1637.

While praying before the damaged statue, tradition tells us that Fr. Cyrillus heard the Infant Jesus speak these words: "Have mercy on me, and I will have mercy on you. Give me my hands, and I will give you peace. The more you honor me, the more I will bless you."

Whether understood as literal history or a pious tradition expressing a profound spiritual truth, the message remains timeless. Christ desires to bless those who approach Him with childlike confidence.

The statue's hands were restored, miracles began to be reported, and devotion to the Infant Jesus spread rapidly throughout Europe and eventually around the world.

The image itself is rich in symbolism. The Child Jesus wears magnificent royal garments adorned with gold embroidery. A jeweled crown rests upon His head, reminding us that even as an infant He is the King of kings and Lord of lords. His left hand holds the globe surmounted by the cross, signifying His dominion over all creation, while His right hand is raised in blessing. There is something wonderfully paradoxical about this image.

The Almighty God reveals His infinite power not through military strength, political influence, or earthly prestige, but through the vulnerability of a little child. In a world that often measures greatness by wealth and power, the Infant of Prague reminds us that God's kingdom is built upon humility, innocence, and love. It is no coincidence that Jesus Himself would later teach, "Unless you turn and become like little children, you will never enter the kingdom of heaven."

As I entered the Church of Our Lady of Victorious that July morning, I was immediately struck by the sense that I had stepped not into a mere historical landmark, but into a living sanctuary of divine presence. The air itself seemed hushed with prayer. Pilgrims from every corner of the world knelt in quiet devotion before the miraculous image of the Infant Jesus. Soft murmurs of prayer rose in many languages, yet beneath the diversity of speech there was a single, unified act of worship – one heart lifted to Christ.

In that moment, the universality of the Church was not an idea but a lived reality. All national boundaries seemed to dissolve before the presence of the Lord.

My purpose that Sunday was simple and unassuming. I had come with my 90-year-old Aunt Rose to attend the English-language Sunday Mass during our visit to Prague. I looked forward to a quiet hour of prayer among fellow pilgrims, entrusting my family, my parish, the diocese of Norwich, and the Pontifical Mission Societies to the care of the Infant Jesus. I had no expectation beyond this – no role to fulfill, no responsibility to assume – only the grace of being present in such a holy place beside my aunt.

As the hour for Mass drew near, however, an unexpected situation arose. The priest scheduled to celebrate the English Mass had not yet arrived. A quiet uncertainty spread among those preparing the liturgy, and I could see the gentle concern of those trying to discern what should be done. It was then that someone noticed my Roman collar among the congregation and approached me with a simple, almost hesitant question: "Father, would you be willing to celebrate the Mass?" For a brief moment, I could only smile in quiet astonishment.

What had begun as an ordinary pilgrimage had suddenly taken on a very different shape. I had come only to pray, yet divine Providence was gently opening another path. Within minutes, I found myself in the sacristy, vesting for the Holy Sacrifice of the Mass in one of the most cherished shrines in the Catholic world.

There are moments in a priest's life when one becomes profoundly aware that it is the Lord, not ourselves, who is quietly directing the course of events. This was unmistakably one of those moments. I had made no arrangements, offered no request, and sought no privilege. Everything unfolded with a simplicity that bore the unmistakable mark of grace, reminding me that God's Providence often reveals itself most clearly when we are least expecting it.

Standing at the altar, only a few steps from the miraculous image of the Infant Jesus, I was filled with a deep and almost overwhelming sense of reverence. I was conscious of the countless saints, priests, religious, and pilgrims who had knelt in that same sacred across the centuries. As I pronounced the sacred words of consecration, I reflected upon the divine Child, once cradled in the arms of His Blessed Mother, now comes to us truly present upon the altar under the humble appearances of bread and wine.

The Child of Bethlehem and the Eucharistic Lord are one and the same.

It was impossible not to recognize the gentle hand of God. I had journeyed thousands of miles with nothing more than the desire to pray before the Infant of Prague. Yet the Infant King Himself, in His Providence, invited me to stand at His altar and offer the Holy Sacrifice of the Mass in His presence. It was an unexpected grace – one that quietly confirmed that when we surrender our plans to God, He does not merely guide them; He transforms them into gifts beyond anything we could have imagined.

One beautiful tradition at the shrine is the changing of the Infant's vestments according to the liturgical seasons. The shrine possesses dozens of richly embroidered garments donated by kings, queens, bishops, religious communities, and faithful pilgrims over many centuries. White vestments are worn during great feasts, violet during penitential seasons, green during Ordinary Time, and red on feasts of martyrs and the Holy Spirit. Even this custom carries a profound lesson.

The Infant Jesus is present with His Church through every season of life. He remains with us during moments of joy and sorrow, celebration and suffering, prosperity and hardship. Though circumstances change, Christ never does.

Before leaving the shrine, I remained in prayer for some time. Like every priest, I carried with me the intentions entrusted to my care – the sick, the lonely, families facing difficulties, young people discerning their vocations, missionaries serving throughout the world, and the faithful people of St. Maurice Parish. I placed every one of those intentions into the loving hands of the Infant Jesus. There was a profound peace in that moment.

Children naturally inspire trust. We instinctively lower our defenses before them. The Infant of Prague invites us to approach God with that same childlike confidence. We need not impress Him with eloquent prayers or complicated words. We simply come as children before our Heavenly Father through His Son.

Perhaps that explains why devotion to the Infant of Prague has endured for nearly four centuries.

In an anxious world filled with uncertainty, the Infant Jesus quietly calls us back to simplicity – to trust rather than fear, humility rather than pride, faith rather than self-reliance. He reminds us that holiness begins not with extraordinary accomplishments but with ordinary fidelity to God.

As I left the Church of Our Lady Victorious that day, I carried home far more than photographs or memories. I carried with me a renewed conviction that Christ's kingship is unlike any kingdom of this world. His throne is ultimately the cross. His crown is first one of thorns before becoming one of glory. His authority is revealed through humble, self-giving love.

Yet before He stretched out His arms upon the cross, He first reached out His tiny hands as a child. That is the enduring lesson of the Infant of Prague.

If the Creator of the universe was willing to become so small for love of us, then no heart is beyond His reach, no burden is too heavy for His grace, and no life is too ordinary to become the setting of His Providence.

On that July Sunday in Prague, I thought I was simply going to attend Mass. Instead, through the quiet workings of divine Providence, I found myself celebrating the Holy Eucharist before the Infant King.

It was a gentle reminder that when we place our lives in God's hands, He never ceases to surprise us with His grace.

General Prayer to Infant of Prague

Dearest Jesus, little Infant of Prague, how tenderly You love us! Your greatest joy is to dwell among us and to bestow Your blessing upon us. Though I am not worthy that You should help me, I feel drawn to You by love because You are kind and merciful. So many who turned to You with confidence have received blessings and had their petitions granted. Behold me as I come before You to lay open my heart to You with its prayers and hopes. I present to You especially this request, which I enclose in Your loving Heart (state your request). Rule over me, dear Infant Jesus, and do with me and mine according to Your holy will, for I know that in Your divine wisdom and love You will arrange everything for the best. Do not withdraw Your hand from me, but protect and bless me forever. I pray You, all-powerful and gracious Infant Jesus, for the sake of Your sacred infancy, in the name of Your blessed Mother Mary who cared for You with such tenderness, and by the greatest reverence with which St. Joseph carried You in His arms, help me in my needs. Make me truly happy with You, dearest Infant, in time and in eternity, and I shall thank You forever. Amen

Jesus is instructing His disciples on how they ought to live as members of His Church after His death, resurrection, and ascension into Heaven. He knows how hard it is for us to live kindly and peacefully with those around us. He tells us to first talk with those who have wronged us and to seek reconciliation with them. Jesus also says that when there are two or three people gathered together in His Name, He is in their midst. When we pray with others, Jesus is there! Jesus is always with us, even when we pray on our own (in fact, praying by ourselves is an excellent thing to do!). But there is something special about praying together. Consider the Mass: together we participate in the liturgy and offer Christ's sacrifice to the Father.

Activities:

- This week, make a special point to gather and pray together as a family. Remember Christ is in your midst when you do so!
- Go to Mass during a weekday! Even though fewer people attend Mass during the week, appreciate the beauty of worshiping God together even in a smaller community of people.
- Is there anyone who has wronged you? How can you talk with them and try to reconcile with them?

Dear Friends:

Your donation to the Catholic Ministries Appeal supports vocations to the priesthood and diaconate in our Diocese. It ensures that those who are looking to serve their parish and diocese have the resources and guidance they need to discern their call to service to provide spiritual nourishment to the people of our diocese.

Deacon O'Brien brings God's message of love, mercy, and hope to others.

"As a Deacon, I hope to revitalize the faith oj others. I go to nursing homes and the residents hear the Word of God and receive the Eucharist. At wake services, when people have lost a loved one, I hope to revitalize their faith so that people know that they can call on and rely on God to help them through the difficult times. In happy times such as a baptism or a wedding, God is there for them for the rest of their life."
